HAMILTON. Ohio. November 19135.

Dr. ROBACK—Dear Sar: I have read in the newspaper many accounts of cures effected by your Scandinavia Remedies, but consider my own case at least as interesting and marvelons as any of them. So far as you are coned, one testimonal more or less to of little consequence. Your fame mentablished, and my statement can out add to your celebrity. But, for the benefit of my relious-creatures, I desire to make known the facts. When I called upon you at the instance of a dear friend, out the state of March last, I had been by years a sufferer from Catarrh. The irritation of the nerves and membrane of the head was so interest that some times it almost decorate. Icalled upon you at the instance of a dear friend, on the last of March last, I had been by sears a sufferer from Catarrh. The irritation of the nerves and membrane of tha head was so intense that some times it almost drove me crazy. I could not sleep, and was never free from us pleasantsensations. At varnous times five different physicians had attended me. Each one treated mein nis own way, but none of them did me any good. I despated oil ever seeing another well day; and when I called all your consultation-rooms had very little hope of rehef. By your advice I entered immediately apon a course of your Scandinavian Blood Purnfer and Blood Pfils. I was encouraged by the cheerical, hopeful way in which you spoke, and I resolved strickly to follow your directions. In least than a week all the worst symptons of my complaint began to take a milder form, and so continued to improve from week to week, until at the end of three months my head was entirely relieved, and every trace of the Catarrh had let me. Suil, however, I continued to take tha remedies for nearly six weeks longer, becausa I found they were building up my strength and fortifying my constitution. Six months have passed since the cure was finished, and I have had no sign of a relapse. I should be glad to see this letter, or the substance of it, in print for the guidance of others.

Years, with hearful grantinde.

We hardly know how to wish our friends a "merry Christmas," only we intend to have a free and joyons day. It is a holiday and we mean to enjoy it to the full extent. The holy Sabbath of the year comes but once in a twelve month, and it must be a sad thing if we cannot observe it. There is something so sweet and consoling in the impressiveness of religion founded upon the revelation of Him who has given this day its holiness to which even the weak and foundering must appeal, and the strong man made after "the image of his Maker" feels the necessity of bowing in humble supplication. Give us Ohristmas cheer-our warm firesidesus all be friends to-day.

It seems that the excitement concerning the negro insurrectionary movement has not entirely subsided in the Green river country. The Honkingville Mercory savs:

"We learn that a free negro preacher of Cadiz hung thore on Tuesday. He was a sort of genand one of the most influential conspirators.

our rennions-our greetings and meetings. Let covered beast, dashed swiftly through the great, dark, gloomy forest which then stretched over a vast tract of country in the northwestern portion of the State of Ohio. Guiding his gallant steed over the moist, level ground, through a dense growth of ash, elm, oak, beech, cotton-wood and poplar trees, whose thickly matted branches made twilight of noonday, and darkness of twi-light, he soon reached the banks of a dark, deep named Sol Young, a notorious character, was river, known as the Maumee, or Miami of the Lakes. Here he reined his travel-worn beast to a halt, threw himself from his back, and ran up he did not find. Then he looked up and down the dark stream, over which the shadows of night were fast settling, and remounting his horse, rode him into the water, and swam him across to the opposite shore. On reaching the right bank of theriver, he again urged his weary beast forward through a gloomy wood-where As for this negro Jones we can hardly be-lieve that he has had anything to do with the and a solemn, awful silence brooded, disturbed Throwing the reins upon the neck of his drooping beast, and tightly grasping his rifle, he dis-mounted quickly, and tapped lightly on the slab

> 'Who's there?" demanded a voice from within with the intonation peculiar to the natives of 'Eden Stanforth,' was the reply of the horse-

Almost instantly the door was thrown open, and exclamations of pleasure broke from two of the four persons present.

Those four persons consisted of a tall, large, etrong, hard-featured, muscular man, of middle age—a small, pale, sharp-featured, thin lipped woman of forty—a long, lank, awkward youth of twenty, with pecked face, flaxen hair, light blue eyes, and freckled skin—and a plump, fair, brown-haired, hazel-eyed, comely malden of

Why, Eden Stanforth, be you back already? who on earth thought of seeing you here to-night?" said the elderly female who had opened the door, which she still held with one hand, while with the other she took the hand of the young horseman.

For young he was and handsome, possessing a fine, manly form, in the full flush and vigor of early manhood, with an open, frank, honest, in-telligent countenance, an eye clear, bright and expressive, and with waving locks, rolling back from a broad, high, smooth forehead, and clustering around healthy-hued cheeks and temples.

to listen to the reply.

'First,' said Eden Stanforth, 'do you know to-night.' that war has been declared between our country and Great Britain?

'No!' exclaimed the uncle of the young mes-'Such is the fact,' pursued Eden hurriedly;

'We shall have to leave them to the tender mercles of the wild beasts and savages,' answered Eden, with a sigh; 'if we can even save our household goods and ourselves, it is all we can hope to do at present.'

'You're right, Eden,' pursued the uncle, in a tone of decision, addressing his young kinsman; 'yon're right, and there's no help for it. It'll ertainly be best for us to take to the barge and drop down into Lake Erie. Now hasten to get your father, mother and sister ready for the voyage. Come, Esther—come, Peleg—come, Mabel-let's set to work at once.

'I will soon rejoin you,' said Eden.
And hurrying out, he mounted his horse, and ode quickly away.

CHAPTER II.

THE MIDNIGHT DEPARTURE. A little before midnight of the same day tory opens, a party of eight persons, fouring ither sex, were slowly and silently movthe across a small opening to the right bank of our Maumee, where a clumsily built barge of midlling size was fastened to the shore. this party of eight were laden with different household articles, which they deposited among umerous others of a similar character, which had been previously brought off to the boat from their dwelling; and being now all collected on board, and having with them all they intended taking from their deserted homes, they forth with loosed the boat and pushed out into the middle of the stream, where, for the time being, it was allowed to float quietly down on the bos om of the current. This party, as the reader has doubtless conjectured, consisted of our young hero, Eden Stanforth, and his father, mother, sister, uncle, and auut, and Mabel Duncan, and Peleg White. Having floated a short distance down the stream, Eden took counsel with his uncle and father, and it was decided the boat should be brought to an anchor some little distance from the shore, and that one should remain on the watch till morning-when, should there be no signs of the enemy, a warning message could he sent to the inhabitants above, which, in their haste to effect their own safety, our voyagers had neglected to do at first.

I take shame to myself,' said Eden in a whisper, for it was not deemed prudent to speak in a loud tone, lest a lurking enemy might hear the sound, and so be attracted to their place of con-cealment: 'I take shame to myself that I did not ride to Major Spofford's and give him warning, "I hoped to surprise you, aunt?" he said quick-ly, as he pushed in and closed the door; 'for had I failed in doing so, I fear you would soon have received a surprise of a more terrible nature.'

"It ought to have been done, Eden, replied his

Mabel-all of whom were more or less nervous and excited—he threw himself down on a loose pile of bedding, and was soon fast asleep.

Not so with the others, who were not so fatigued as Eden, and upon whom the exciting news had produced an effect calculated to banish sleep for several hours. At the request of David Stan-torth, the father of Eden, who had heen for years an invalid, and whose constitution was so broken and impaired as to render him unable to bear any great fatigne, they all repaired to their places of rest, where they conversed in whispers for a long time, conjecturing as to the future, and narrating occurrences of the past, till each was prepared to hear an Indian in every sound. or see one in every shadow or in everything hav-But as the night wore slowly away, without presenting in a tangible shape the objects of their ears, they all at last gradually yielded to the

The St. Louis Intelligencer of Monday says: On Friday night, the weather turned suddenly cold, and Saturday was the coldest day of the season. Boats that were advertised to leave for points on the Illinois and Upper Mississippi on Saturday, took down their signs, paid of their crews, and came to the conclusion to suspend business for the winter, or until warmer weather takes place. Since Saturday moraing, the river has been filled with beavy floating ice, that will prevent all boats from either arriving or departence, who is a "traveled man," and whose ing for the present On Saturday, the Alton judgment and impartiality may be relied upon, packets made their accustomed trips, not, however, without a great deal of trouble and danger. The Elvira, too, arrived from Chester about noon, and left again in the evening. There were several departures for New Orleans and the Ohio river, and all the boats were anxious to get the oriver, and all the boats were anxious to get all druggists. away before the river closed entirely. Yesterday there was not an arrival from any quarter, and the probability is that there will be none to-day During all of yesterday, the river opposite th city was filled with ice almost from one shore to the other, which moved sluggishly down, apparently waiting an opportunity to come to a halt and, form a gorge, that will effectually prevent all coats from going out or coming in.

The Cincinnati Commercial of yesterday says: Our readers, of course, are aware from our previous report, that navigation is suspended here. Yesterday morning intelligence reached us that the ice bad gorged at "Four Mile," but at dark heavy masses commenced floating by the wharf, indicating that the gorge had given away.
Up to noon, the river had receded from ten to twelve inches, but in the evening it was rising rapidly, a sure sign of a gorge below. To-day there will not be over six feet full in the chennel to Louisville. The Caledonia, from Maysville, is the lest arrival from above. She worked through the ice with difficulty, arriving at an early hour vesterday morning.

Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Remedies .- In directing the attention of our readers to Dr. Ro-back's advertisement, we have no hesitation in saying that all he claims for his medicines is con-firmed by certificates from all parts of the west The language of these certificates is so earnest and grateful, and the cures refer to such a variety of diseases, that it would be folly to question the restorative properties of the preparations.

It appears that while botanizing among his native mountains, in Sweden, during a visit to that country some years ago, he collected a large his country, and by combining the liquids and | Europe. solid extracts of those possessing powerful detergent properties, he succeeded in producing his celebrated Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, which curatives in existence. Dr. Roback's theory is that all diseases originate in the blood, and i would seem that the rapid recovery of his patients, under a course of these disinfectants, affords strong presumptive evidence that his pathology is correct. Certain it is that the celebrity of his medicines increases daily, and that he has authentic proofs of their success in his possessions. See Advertisement.

The House passed Senate joint resolution extending the time aring which the creditors of the late Republic of Texas shall present their claims to January 1st, 1858, and repealing so much of the act of August, 1856, as provides that the residue, about nr hundred thousand dollars, of the sum thereby appropriated shall be divided prorata among ors who have filed their releases.

Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, in moving the House to go into Committee of the Whole on the Indian to go into Committee of the whole on the indian Appropriation bill, said it was very important that it should pass speedily, as it contained an appropriation for carrying out the treaty with the Creeks and Seminoles, made in August last. Mr. Maxwell trusted the bill would be considered, as Florida was now engaged in Indian dif-There had been no better prospect for the last twenty years than at Inls time for closing the war. Under this treaty the Creeks and Sem lnoles, who have emigrated West, are to be employed in order to bring it to a termination.

Mr. Quitman had a bill to report from the Military Committee giving increased compensa-tion to keep officers of the Army from starving.

Unless it passed, the best portion of the Army would be disbauded. Therefore, he remarked, it was equally important as measures suggested by gentlemen from Ohio. The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Indian, Military Academy, and invalid pension appropriations biils, which were aubsequently passed and the House then adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24. Wednesday's Proceedings. The Senate is not in session to-day, having adourned over till Friday.

House.—Mr. Campbell, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported the Postoffice, Mailteamer, and Deficiency appropriation bills. Mr. Phelps, from the same committee, reported ith amendments, the Senate bill relative to foreign coinage and the coinage of the new cent Mr. Phelps explained that his object was to withdraw from circulation all depreciated foreign coin by receiving Mexican and Spanish quarters, eighths and sixteenths of a dollar, at twenty, ten, and five cents respectively. The committee of Ways and Means propose that the President shall fix by proclamation a description of the new cent coin. The precedent was set in 1796.

Mr. Haven was fearful that the bill in its present form would disturb to a great extent the commarcial transactions of the country, as it posed a repeal of all laws making any foreign coins a legal tender. Mr. Phelps replied that it was the opinion of various gentlementhat no
